

CURSE OF THEM BLACK CHAMELEONS

Bought a black chameleon
They're one in a million
It begged me to kill him
So I threw him off a building

The voices are back somehow
Burning, screaming, stabbing me in the eye

He dropped for a while
Started to fly
Turned to me and smiled
Not bad for a reptile

The visions are back somehow
Burning, screaming, stabbing me in the eye

And now he's everywhere
Changing colors through the air
Wanna know if I am scared
And to join him if I dare

I'm up on a rooftop
Sucking on a teardrop
Chameleons non stop
Waiting for my big drop

The future is mine somehow
Burning, screaming, stabbing me in the eye

And now they're everywhere
Changing colors through the air
Wanna know if I am scared
And to join them if I dare

Jump, jump, jump

It's not impossible to dance on nothing
Nothing is if you never say no
The air is nothing but a reptile rooftop
And if it isn't I'm the first to know
Nothing's new, and everything's is different
We'll embrace it. Take it slow
I'm a god, I'm a black chameleon
It's time to go home

And now I'm everywhere
Changing colors through the air
I've never been less scared
Come join me if you dare
